

EcoVisio in Action - January 2021

2020 was full of challenges

A confusing and interesting year. See how 2020 was for EcoVisio!

Last year was special also for EcoVisio. Despite the crisis which covered us all, we strived to do beautiful and special things.

At the beginning of the pandemic, we tried to be closer to the doctors from Bălți and Căușeni, through the "Hospitals' Needs" initiative. With the imposed restrictions, we brought you "Nature at Home", promoting balcony gardening. We also organized seminars on how to make your working from home more environmentally friendly. As the pandemic hit hard the local businesses, we decided to support local entrepreneurs and organized the IarmarEco 2020 Caravan, which promoted natural products and ecological initiatives in four localities around the country.

We have combined online and offline activities, to be closer to all those who want to become more environmentally friendly.

We would not have been able to mobilize and find so much energy without your support and enthusiasm. Thank you all and welcome to find all our achievements of the previous year in the 2020 report

People of EcoVisio

Daniela Gurschi joined our team in March last year. Having a huge experience in economics and business administration, our colleague coordinates the creation of the online platform IarmarEco, designed to promote local producers and products, as well as those consumers who choose a healthy lifestyle. Daniela spends her free time with her almost 2-years-old daughter, or among historical and fantasy books.
